Accreditation is the process by which a certification body is recognised to offer certification services. In order to become compliance accreditation, ISA Inspection & Certification is required to implement a Management System which is assessed by an Independent Authorised Body to determine that it meets International Standards. ISA Certification Limited is audited annually to ensure its services meet the exact requirements of the relevant accreditation standards.

Our accreditation means that we have been independently assessed as possessing the expertise and competency to audit and certify to each of the listed standards on our website. Organisations who are seeking to have a system certified to an international standard should ensure that the assessment and certification is carried out by a competent compliance body. This means that the certification body providing the service is compliance certificate and can provide evidence that it has the expertise, skills, proven knowledge of the standard and itself operates a quality service.
